DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgments

1. Acknowledgment is made of the extension of time and amendment filed 6/12/02.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McCann(6,253,141) and in further view of Phung et al.(6,370,469).

With respect to claims 1, 6, 8, 11, and 16, McCann discloses a system for braking a vehicle comprising a lateral acceleration sensor 21 for generating a lateral acceleration signal and a microcontroller 2 for comparing said signal to a threshold value, as shown in figure 2. McCann does not disclose the lateral acceleration sensor as being in direct communication with cruise control. Phung et al. does disclose a lateral acceleration sensor 20 in direct communication with a cruise control 18, as shown in figure 4. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have put the acceleration sensor for braking of McCann in direct communication with the cruise control of Phung et al. in order to disengage the cruise control due to sensed lateral movement in addition to braking the vehicle.

Art Unit: 3618

With respect to claims 2-5 and 12-15, these vehicles are all intended uses for the system and therefore have been given little patentable weight.

With respect to claims 7, 9, and 10, most conventional accelerometers are mechanical switches with a type of pendulum, and therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the same time the invention was made to have used a conventional pendulum accelerometer in the vehicle safety system, as taught by McCann, in order to accurately measure the lateral acceleration of the vehicle.

With respect to claim 17, the method recited in this claim is inherently performed in the use of the modified vehicle safety system, as taught by McCann, in the rejection of claims 1 and 11 above.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Foo et al. and Ehlbeck, all disclose cruise controls of interest.

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3618

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
